

German Reichstag Ratifies Dawes Plan

All Legislation Necessary to Its Execution Passed by Big Majority—One Bill Changes Constitution—Foreign Diplomats Applaud—President Coolidge Pleased.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, Aug. 29.—The Dawes reparation plan was ratified by the Reichstag today after stormy debate.

The bills necessary to the execution of the plan were all passed.

The railroad bill, which needed a two-thirds majority vote, because it changes the constitution, was enacted by 314 to 127 votes.

Before the balloting began Chancellor Marx addressed the Reichstag, warning that this body would be dissolved if it failed to ratify the plan. The chancellor referred to the German Nationalists' proposed amendments, saying that it could not be accepted because it would change the sense of the Dawes agreement.

Dissolution of the Reichstag was avoided by a compromise reached between government leaders and the German Nationalists, the chief enemies of the Dawes plan.

The various bills were taken up and passed separately, not in a group.

"The covering letter" measure, accepting the London protocol, was passed at 4:45 o'clock, after the Reichstag had enacted the liquidation of the renten mark bill.

As the Reichstag continued passing the various bills foreign diplomats rose in the spectator gallery and applauded.

President Coolidge Pleased.
Washington, Aug. 29.—Great pleasure was expressed today by President Coolidge and members of the cabinet when news of the ratification of the Dawes reparation plan by the German Reichstag was carried to the White House by International News Service.

The cabinet was engaged in an informal discussion of the reparation settlement when the news was received.

President Again Takes Up Duties

Returns From Vacation and Enters on Executive Duties and Campaign Management—Wrote Speech by Lamplight in Father's Home.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 29.—Refreshed by two weeks' vacation at the home of his father in Plymouth, Vermont, President Coolidge returned to Washington today to assume the double task of his executive duties and the management of his presidential campaign.

The president was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, their son, John, and his secretary, C. Bascom Slamp. The party motored from Union station to the White House for breakfast.

The president planned to check up on accumulated correspondence during the morning and to receive members of the cabinet.

A cabinet meeting was called for 10:30 a. m., and it was announced that the president would receive the newspaper correspondents at 4 p. m.

At noon the president spoke from the south portico of the White House to several hundred delegates to the World's Fraternal Congress.

The president wrote the speech by the light of a kerosene lamp in his father's home.

Conferences during the afternoon were planned between the president and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who has been making preliminary plans for the Federal commission which will be appointed to investigate the agricultural industry.

Short Family Again in Court

Harry Short and his wife, Rose, who were arrested several days ago by Officer Hess for creating a disturbance on Railroad avenue, both pleaded guilty before Judge Schirick in police court this morning, and each was fined $5.

Judge Schirick informed them that he was tired of seeing them in police court and that Harry was to maintain his payments of $6 a week to his wife, and that both he and she should leave each other alone. "Don't bother or speak to each other," advised the court, "and the only time I want to see you both again is when you come together here and inform me you are both willing to live together again happily."

Rose's mother, Mrs. Stewart, is suing Harry for two months' board at $10 a week, and that case was set down for a trial next Wednesday.

WILLIAM SAID HE WAS MAD AND JUDGE SAID HE WAS, TOO

William Thompson, a young negro, was arrested at midnight on Martin's Lane by Officer Martin for staging a fight with another negro. When the officer arrived the fight was over and he found both negroes with the shirts torn from their backs. While the officer was admonishing them, William sneaked over another blow on the other negro, and was promptly placed under arrest.

"Why did you strike the other negro when the officer was admonishing you?" asked Judge Schirick of William.

"Ah was still mad," confessed William.

"And I am mad, too," retorted Judge Schirick, adding, "Ten days in jail."

BOY SLIGHTLY HURT WHEN HIT BY AUTO THURSDAY

He brought the boy to the Benedictine Hospital where it was found the boy was not seriously injured and was able to leave the institution this morning.

Prince Watching To Sight America

Heir to British Throne Due to Land On Long Island Late This Afternoon—First Messages of Welcome Carried to Sea by Airplane.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
On board liner Berengaria, Aug. 29.—(By wireless)—With trunks and bags all packed and everything in readiness for debarkation, the Prince of Wales stood at the rail of his private promenade deck this afternoon watching eagerly for the shore line as this great liner drew near Quarantine.

The Prince told his companions that he had greatly enjoyed his trip and congratulated the captain on the liner's splendid run from Southampton.

"The royal traveler looked in perfect condition physically for his long indulgent strenuous in exercise every day of the voyage. He slept late this morning, for he and General Trotter, his traveling companion, remained in the lounge until 3:15 o'clock. There was an impromptu concert during the last half hour given by Miss Grace Larue. The prince applauded her singing with vigorous hand clapping.

Airplane Carrying Messages

New York, Aug. 29.—Edward Albert, Prince of Wales, the most popular young man in the world, will set foot on American soil some time late this afternoon.

The Cunard liner Berengaria carrying the Prince and his suite is plowing through the seas off Sandy Hook and is due to drop anchor at Quarantine some time between two and four o'clock this afternoon. The definite time of the ship's arrival is dependent on weather conditions and Cunard line officials cannot estimate closer than two hours.

Forty miles off the Atlantic coast the Prince will receive his first welcome to America, when Major William H. Hensley, Jr., commandant of Mitchell Field, sitting in the cockpit of a big De-Havilland airplane piloted by Lieutenant Connell, will read short welcomes from the people of the United States, Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York and Mayor John F. Hylan of New York city from 3,000 feet in the air over the big British liner, into the broadcasting apparatus in the cockpit of the machine.

Formalities at Quarantine

When the Berengaria drops anchor at Quarantine the speedy motor yacht of Robert Graves, the "Black Watch," will go alongside to take the Prince off as soon as he has been interviewed by newspaper men and the formalities of medical inspection of the ship are over.

The Cunard line has supplied two tugs to carry notables and newspaper men and photographers who will meet the vessel, one carrying the official party, including Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, Sir Ashley Sparks, resident director of the Cunard line, Louis E. Stoddard, president of the United States Polo Association, and Butler Wright, assistant secretary of state, who will represent the government; Major Oscar N. Solbert, U. S. A., who will act as the Prince's aide de camp while he is in the United States, and Major Edward D. Metcalfe, the Prince's equerry, who has been here for the past month making arrangements for the visit of the heir to the British throne.

The other tug will carry a regiment of newspapermen and women, and photographers gathered from all over the continent to report every minute movement and every word of the young scion of royalty is responsible for. The Prince has consented to be interviewed and photographed on "A" deck of the liner before he boards the "Black Watch."

The "Black Watch" will convey the Prince and his party to Glen Cove, Long Island, shortly after the liner drops anchor, and there Great Britain's future king will step ashore to be greeted by a huge crowd and to motor through long lines of curious folk on his ten mile ride to the estate of James A. Burden at Syosset, which will be his home while he is on Long Island.

Society Gathers for Visit.

Estates in the vicinity of the Prince's American headquarters, have been at a premier ever since announcement was made that he would be there for the Meadowbrook polo matches, and scores of those whose names are included in the Blue Book of Society have gathered there from wherever they may have been spending the summer. The Prince's visit was a magnet that few could resist.

Scores of others have filled the hotels and boarding houses in the vicinity, paying exaggerated rates for accommodations for the short period the Prince will be in the vicinity.

Curious Motorists Gather Early.

Last night the first of the motor cars that will line the roadway between the landing dock at Glen Cove and the Burden home began to arrive, many motorists taking a tip from previous world series baseball matches and going early to get choice parking places in the double ribbon of cars that will soon bank the roadway.

All preparations have been made for a special train to convey the Prince to Washington, and it will leave in accordance with his wishes. No definite time will be set for its departure until after he has arrived at Syosset and been consulted. New York city's first glimpse of the Prince will be for the few minutes he will ride through the city and be in the Pennsylvania station before boarding the special train for the capital, where he will be greeted by President Calvin Coolidge.

Coolidge Goes To Golden Rule

For Text of His Talk Before National Fraternal Conference of America—Virtues Which Satisfy are Industry, Loyalty, Faith, Common Sense and Humanity.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 29.—President Coolidge this afternoon sounded an appeal for the practice in America of the homely virtues of "loyalty, common sense, faith and the Golden Rule." He went back to the Sermon on the Mount as expressive of a definite standard of action for the promotion of human fellowship.

The president was back in Washington today after a two weeks' vacation in the Vermont hills.

The president's speech, delivered to several hundred delegates to the National Fraternal Congress of America, gathered about the south portico of the White House, contained no reference to the political campaign. It dealt solely with the promotion of the welfare of humanity through the spirit of brotherhood and fraternity.

The political institutions of this country, the president declared, the "recognition of a common brotherhood."

"From that principle," he said, "arises the right of freedom and equality. It is the basis for organized and harmonious effort under authority in our social, political and industrial life."

"Without the moving spirit of fraternity, of a common effort for a common purpose, our government, economic and social organizations would at once disintegrate."

"When you minister to the spirit, when you stimulate it into greater activity, you provide greater security, larger resources and a more harmonious life for all the people. It is the expression of the spirit of common brotherhood which makes men desirous to serve their own town, their own state and their own nation in every lawful and law abiding way. It is the prime remedy for selfishness."

"A knowledge of these principles and these ideals is among the most precious of human possessions. Sometimes I have thought that we do not place emphasis enough upon the homely virtues, or sufficiently appreciate the common blessings of life."

"The desire for advancement, the wish for something more, ought not to make us unmindful of the place we now hold and the possessions we now have. The spirit of contentment is one which is well worth cultivating."

"We Americans are constantly criticized for the eagerness with which we seek wealth and power. I doubt if we are any more avaricious and grasping than those of other nations, though I admit we possess the enterprise which makes us more successful."

"It seems perfectly apparent that the real satisfactions in life are not found in great possessions."

"Not only youth, with scanty and home made toys, but maturity in humble surroundings may get as much satisfaction out of life as those with surroundings made up of every luxury. If this, which I believe to be profoundly true, were more fully realized, it would remove much discontent on the one hand and remedy considerable vanity and arrogance on the other. There is a very great deal more of equality in America than is yet appreciated. Some day this will be generally understood and admitted."

The president said that the virtues which bring satisfaction to life are industry, loyalty, faith, common sense and humanity.

"A definite and practical standard of action for the promotion of human fellowship was stated in the Sermon on the Mount with a clearness and precision that have never been surpassed," Mr. Coolidge said.

"It has come down to us through all the generations as the Golden Rule of human conduct. Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye even so to them; for this is the law of the prophets. We must always consider the other fellow. This is a perfect expression of the fraternal idea."

"I have referred to these as homely virtues. They are known of all men."

"I believe that herein will be found to a very large degree the real satisfactions of life. All of us, if we will, become partakers of them. It all depends upon ourselves for none can act for us. I do not wish to be misunderstood, because I believe in these I would not have thought I believe in nothing else. I suppose that in our social and political relations many other things do not need to be done. But these are fundamental and necessary, they are always work. Before we conclude that all our institutions have proven a failure, that we must have an entire new order of things, we ought to be certain that we have fully availed ourselves of the advantages of the observance of these simple, elemental, homely virtues. It will be time enough to experiment with proposed substitutes when these have been exhausted."

"The rituals of nearly all fraternal organizations are based upon religion. No true fraternity can rest on any other conception. It is for these reasons that they are supporters of the true aims of society, strong reliance on public light, able advocates of the cause of righteousness and religion, and effective promoters of peace and good will among the nations of the earth."

Farm and Home Bureau Picnic Biggest Held in Hudson Valley

Wife's Lover Sent to Jail

When Wisniewski Learned That Melchovitch Sought Warrant He Called on Him Thursday—Wisniewski Arrested and Jailed for 30 Days.

Thursday morning Steve Melchovitch of No. 120 Hasbrouck avenue was at the city hall seeking a warrant for the arrest of Henry Wisniewski on a charge of inducing Steve's wife to leave him and the four children and go with him.

Thursday afternoon Henry learned of Steve's visit to the city judge and called to pay a visit at Steve's home, with the result that he was placed under arrest, charged with assaulting Steve. The arrest was made by Officer Saelhoff.

Henry was escorted to the county jail, but did not spend the night there as Mrs. Melchovitch took steps to bail him out when she learned of his incarceration.

This morning Henry and Mrs. Melchovitch appeared at the city hall and the woman's husband and two of their four children accompanied him.

Henry was arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schirick and entered a plea of guilty to assault in the third degree, and was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail. Judge Schirick warned Henry that at the expiration of his term he was to leave Steve and his family alone.

The judge then called Mrs. Melchovitch forward to the bar of justice and informed her that she had one husband in a hundred, for he was willing to take her back for the sake of the four children. The oldest child is 14 years old. He warned her that she was not to attempt to visit Henry in the county jail, and that when he was released she was to stay away from him.

Shattan Takes Ten Year Lease

North Front Street Clothier Also Makes Extensive Improvements to His Store—Attributes Success to Advertising in The Freeman.

Isidor Shattan who for some time has conducted a store at 42 North Front street, selling clothing, gent's furnishings, boots, shoes and hats, has renewed the lease for ten years. Mr. Shattan's business has grown yearly and in order to supply the demands of his customers his stock has been augmented from time to time to such an extent that it has been found necessary to build an addition of twenty-two feet at the rear of the store, work on which is now in progress. An entire new and modern plate glass front is also to be put in, to be six feet in depth. Mr. Shattan says his success has been due to his use of advertising space in the Daily Freeman and Semi-Weekly Freeman and carrying out the promises made in his advertising. New fixtures will later be installed and when the improvements are completed he will have an up-to-date store.

NEGRO ARRESTED WHILE HIKING TOWARD MOUNTAINS

Thursday afternoon Constable Charles McCullough of the town of Ulster, while on duty at the temporary bridge over the Kingston creek, on the Mutton Hollow side, noticed a colored man for whom he had been looking for some time hiking over the bridge on his way to the Catskills. As the man was wanted on a warrant for defrauding a board house keeper in East Kingston, Constable McCullough took him into custody and placed him in the Ulster county jail. He will be taken before Judge Webber at Flatbush for a hearing tonight.

Panhandler Given Chance

George Clark, a panhandler who said his home was in Hartford, Conn., was arrested on Fair street Thursday night by Officer Hess. This morning George was given 15 minutes to leave town by Judge Schirick.

An Auto Collision

Thursday the cars of William Slinger of 108 Hunter street and Andrew M. Taylor of Port Ewen collided on Broadway in front of the city hall. Both cars were somewhat damaged.

No Actual Count Made of Those Present, but Based on Actual Paid Attendance at New Paltz Pageant Last June, Crowd Was Estimated at Nearly 15,000—Everything Eaten—Everybody Pleased—Barnyard Golf Trophy Cup Won by Marlborough.

"Many years of hard work to bring the Ulster County Picnic to a point of perfection culminated Thursday in the biggest picnic ever held in the Hudson river valley, when a crowd estimated at close to 15,000 men, women and children, representing every section of Ulster county, attended the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau Picnic at Forsyth Park in this city. While no actual count of the crowd was possible, or attempted, the estimate of attendance is based on comparison with the attendance at the Historical Pageant at New Paltz on June 3rd of this year, when there was an actual paid attendance within the reserved section of 6,000 people. Those who attended the New Paltz Pageant, and were thoroughly familiar with conditions there made a close study and survey of the crowd at the Ulster County Picnic, and after careful estimates reached the conclusion that the Forsyth Park attendance considerably exceeded 12,000 and was but slightly under 15,000."

Not only did the Ulster County Picnic surpass all records in the matter of attendance, but it also established new high records for outdoor pleasures, interest in athletic contests, orderliness, crowds without accidents and amount of food consumed. It demonstrated the permanent and constantly growing interest of Ulster county residents, both of city and county, in the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau, and demonstrated the strength of organized effort when backed by the Farm and Home Bureau and Chamber of Commerce under whose auspices the big Picnic took place.

Marvelous Appetites Developed.

Everybody who has an appetite which is in good and regular standing invariably sharpens it before taking it to any picnic, and Thursday's picnic at Forsyth Park indicated that a tremendous amount of sharp eating had taken place beforehand. Most family groups brought lunches packed neatly in either grips or suit cases, brief cases, cardboard boxes of various sizes or simply wrapped in paper, but in addition to such family supplies the hot "daws" booth, in charge of Millard Davis, Kerhkonson, disposed of two hundred and fifty pounds of hot "daws."

"Davis' daws," was the way many of the picnickers described them in making their wants known as soon as the appetizing smell of the roasting delicacies began to float through the grove and then to the more distant parts of the park. The Ulster County Home Bureau, which had charge of all refreshments because it knew he could be depended on under all circumstances and likewise because he has had charge of that particular part of the work at each Farm and Home Bureau picnic since they have been held in Ulster county. A generous order for "daws" had been placed early with the Jacob Forst Packing Company, which was increased shortly before noon, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon a hurry call was sent in for fifty pounds additional. Orders for the rolls served with the "daws" were increased proportionately, and so carefully had estimates been made that the last roll was served with the last hot "dawg."

Although business in "daws" was brisk at all times, the supply lasted until 6:20 p. m., when the last was sold.

All Supplies Eaten.

At the other booths and tents where refreshments were sold, the entire supply was sold out, but sufficient quantities had been laid in to feed everyone until nearly 6 o'clock in the evening, by which time the entire crowd appeared to have been taken care of, as those who came from city homes after that hour appeared to have brought baskets of lunches which only needed to be supplemented by ice cream and coffee.

The last of the supply of milk, supplied by members of the Dairy-men's League, was sold shortly before 6 o'clock.

Dairy-rea Dainties, the ice cream made by the Dairy-men's League, which is packed in attractive round boxes and then covered with frozen fruit, accompanied by a diminutive, sanitary paper spoon, were the first of the refreshments to be sold out. More than 2,500 Dainties had been ordered, and the last of them was sold before three o'clock. Eight hundred had been used at the 1923 Picnic at New Paltz. The Dainties were sold at the ice cream tent, along with huge quantities of Hon-ler's ice cream, and after the Dainties were gone the crowd delighted itself with the various kinds of cream remaining, necessitating extra trips by the Hoster trucks to the Hoster depot on Broadway.

About the same time, the supply of homemade cake, which would have been ample to care for any ordinary crowd, became exhausted. Then the last of the delicious homemade sandwiches disappeared.

Besides the never-failing supply of ice cream and coffee, the supply of "Healthy" punch likewise seemed inexhaustible, and whenever it began to run low, H. M. Eppes of Accord, who alone knew the ingredients and didn't have time to tell anybody what they were, simply disappeared in the punch tent, and shortly thereafter a fresh supply issued forth which seemed even better than its predecessor.

The tobacco stand did a thriving business. Some of the brands were sold out before the stand had been in operation an hour, but willing feet hastened to respond to the S. O. S. signals of distressed smokers, and without much of a wait everybody again became satisfied and happy.

All Meet on "Refreshment Lane."

"Refreshment Lane" occupied both sides of the main walk leading from the park entrance to the pine grove surrounding the slope, and eventually everybody who attended the picnic visited the Lane. Anybody who wanted to see anybody else needed only to select a convenient spot along the Lane, and within an incredibly short time there was a reunion—usually several reunions.

Once during the afternoon a little girl who was on the athletic field began to cry and told a policeman that she was "lost." But she remembered her name, so the accommodating officer, procuring a megaphone, asked in stentorian tones for "the mother of little—," giving the name of the child.

A chorus answered from the bank: "You'll find her eating at the tents."

Great Interest in Athletics.

Interest in all the athletic events of the day was greater than has been displayed at any public gathering outside of special field days ever held in Ulster county.

During the morning and early afternoon, the preliminaries and semifinals in the horse shoe pitching took place at one end of the athletic field, while the various events for the young people occupied the remainder of the field. While both sides of the field were filled, the greater part of the crowd occupied the slope in the shade of the pine grove, where at all times a fine breeze tempered the heat of mid-afternoon. The slope is formed by a series of natural rock terraces, both slope and field forming a natural amphitheater which is ideal for events of this kind or for pageants or public speaking.

There was keen rivalry between the contestants in every event, but there were not any unpleasant incidents and the best spirit of sportsmanship possible prevailed.

The contests which created the greatest enthusiasm and merriment among the spectators were the girls' potato races, boys' shoe race, girls' sack race and peanut race. Most of the boys who took part in the peanut race were very small but very ambitious. The field was as smooth as could be expected, but occasionally a boy would run his nose against a sharp stone concealed in the grass and would lift his head in disgust and then dazedly return to the race as he saw what other boys were doing.

The boys' shoe races were marked by the utmost good humor, even when boys tossed some other boy's shoes far away upon discovering their own feet would not squeeze in them.

Watermelon Eating Contest.

An extra event not on the regular program was a watermelon eating contest which was staged on the speaker's platform at the close of the regular athletic events and after the regular prizes had been distributed. Contestants were to be paid fifty cents apiece, only boys could enter, and colored boys were preferred.

On the first call by megaphone for small colored boys, there was no response.

A second and then a third call also were without result. Then somebody discovered a barefooted little colored boy standing thirty feet away from the stand.

The boy said he liked watermelon and liked money, but he was bashful and said he guessed he wouldn't go in. But City Schools Supervisor of Physical Training, Bulley picked up the squirming boy and other strong and willing hands and arms con-

ties were gone the crowd delighted itself with the various kinds of cream remaining, necessitating extra trips by the Hoster trucks to the Hoster depot on Broadway.

Factory Payrolls Lower in July

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, Aug. 29.—Factory payrolls in New York state were a half million dollars a week less in July than in June. July was the fourth successive month of contracting payrolls. This statement was issued today by Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag of the State Department of Labor.

Factory payrolls for all manufacturing in the state in July were estimated to be $32,000,000. A part of the decline might be ascribed to the usual summer vacations and the slowing up of production and earnings because of the Saturday half-holiday. The fact remains, however, that weekly payrolls are six million dollars lower than they were in July of last year when the summer let-down was in effect the same as now.

Wage Rate Decreases Appear

A small but significant change has taken place in the trend of factory wage rates. In June eight of the firms reporting to the Labor Department stated that they were reducing wages and 20 that they were reducing them. In July eleven firms put up basic rates and 17 reported cuts. This is a small number of firms and a correspondingly small proportion of all factory workers. The significance lies in the shift to the side of rate reductions.

For almost a year factory wage rates have been stationary. The upward movement of rates started in the fall of 1922, when employment began to pull up. After gaining great momentum it culminated suddenly in the spring of 1923, when efforts to check inflation halted the rise of prices. From May, 1923, to May, 1924, the net change in average earnings for all manufacturing combined amounted to seven cents. Even now the change in average per-capita earnings is small.

The movement for lower rates is starting in the textiles. In the representative reporting factories, 4,000 workers in the knitting mills and 2,000 in the carpet mills accepted wage cuts ranging from eleven to twenty per cent in June. At least twice as many employees in the whole state were effected. In July at least 1,200 shoe workers accepted wage reductions, most of which were over 10 per cent, and another 800 textile workers were given lower basic rates. There were a few reductions also among the metals. The rest were scattering.

The smaller number of the increases is not so important as the fact that they are usually for lower rates, five per cent or less, and that many of them were granted as the result of union agreements made some time ago. More than half the increases in both months were to workers in the building supply industries.

Marked Contrast Between Industries

As in the case of reductions in employment the effects of smaller payrolls are intensified by the uneven course of the downward movement. Payrolls were higher than they were last July in the cement mills, the brick yards and the planing mills, all of which manufacture supplies for the building industry. The food industries also continue stable. At the same time payrolls have been cut more than 50 per cent in the iron and steel mills and the cotton factories.

None of the textiles has escaped reductions but the carpet and rug factories are in the best position in this group with a drop of twenty-two per cent in total wage payments. Knitting, woolen and silk workers have found payrolls lower by more than 25 per cent.

Among the metals similar reductions have taken place since last year in hardware, stamped ware, tools and cutlery, stoves, agricultural implements and railroad equipment in addition to that in iron and steel.

A few metal industries are holding up so well as to offset part of the decline. Electrical apparatus, silverware and jewelry and structural iron, while below last year, are in good position. Structural iron, and to some extent electrical equipment, are affected by the building industry, as is the manufacture of steam and hot water heating systems which is fairly active. Declines appeared in all these industries in July, however, except in the structural iron plants.

Because the metals and the textiles have the widest swing, it is possible to overlook the smaller but important decreases in other lines. All the leather products industries, the paper mills, the furniture and piano factories and the glass factories have all felt the effects of the market.

Although the men's clothing shops have been coming back rather well and the women's underwear factories are in a relatively good position, the women's clothing shops and modistes' shops and the men's shirt and collar factories are only two-thirds as active as they were a year ago.

Irregular Tendencies in Cities

The uneven effects of the reaction on the various industries are equally noticeable in the separate cities and industrial areas of the state. In July as in June Rochester remains in comparatively the most favorable position, because of seasonal increases in food and shoe factories. In New York city manufacturing has less sharp fluctuations than in the rest of the state, because of the fewness of textile mills and plants making heavy metal goods. On the other hand seasonal changes in New York city are more violent than in the other districts. The small decrease in payrolls in New York in July, like the gain in Rochester, was largely seasonal.

The very uneven course of payrolls in the capital district is illustrated by a few industries. Per capita earnings in the steel mills are $2 lower than they were a year ago, but in the other metal industries they are higher. In the printing plants earnings have gone up almost $2.50, while in the collar factories they went down $2 in the weekly average. The full significance of this is illustrated by the fact that in July a year ago the textile and collar industries had the lowest average earnings in the district and now the

Tell Girls

And women what I do for you By Edna Wallace Hopper

My office sends me countless letters which thank me for new beauty and new youth. Please don't do that. Just tell to other girls and women what you've found.

I am simply passing on to others what great scientists gave me. The helps that made me a famous beauty, then kept my youth and beauty to my grand old age.

Those helps number 52, but I have had them combined in four preparations—Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. One is a cold cream which I call my Youth Cream. It combines products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster, feed and protect the skin. I use it as a night cream also daytimes as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. I have never heard of cream which brings anything like its results.

Now I am placing my Youth Cream—just as I use it—at every woman's call. All druggists and toilet counters supply it at 60c per jar. Also in 25c tubes. Just ask for Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. I promise you that as long as you live you'll be very glad you know it, and I will send you a sample to try, if you wish. Also my Beauty Book. Just mail this coupon. For beauty's sake, do it now.

spread is still greater. Another contrast is the fact that the women-employing industries have all been affected at once, while some of the men-employing industries have kept up almost at last year's level of operations.

Average earnings in Buffalo are down $1.50 compared with last year. Here the metals felt the chief effect with a reduction averaging $3 weekly. In the brass, copper and aluminum mills the decrease was more than that, and in the iron and steel mills average earnings fell from almost $40 last July to less than $32 this past month.

The same irregular tendencies appear in the Syracuse district with a reduction averaging $2 weekly in earnings for several metal industries, small increase in the factories making pottery and other clay products and a gain of almost $4 for the few workers in the printing trades.

The reduction in the Utica district is over $2.50 for all industries combined. In the textile mills the average which was over $21 weekly last year had fallen to a little more than $17.50 this July. In the brass and copper mills earnings fell in a year from $26.81 to barely $18.

Binghamton again is in a rather favorable position, because although there was a decrease of over $1.50 in average earnings, employment has not fallen here quite so much as in other sections and so there were fewer people whose earnings from factory work were cut off entirely.

Many Features at Po'keepsie Fair

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 29.—What promises to be a great outdoor amusement enterprise, is the Poughkeepsie Fair scheduled for five days and nights starting September 23, according to advice of Earl F. Newberry, managing director and who formerly was identified with many of the largest state fairs in America. Contracts have been closed for many unique features including Pain's fireworks and the Temple of Concord, an "All-geographical Spectacle" which will be staged each night. Ten circus vaudeville acts and auto polo will also be presented afternoon and evening. Brown & Dyer Shows, including fifteen big shows and ten riding devices will be in operation on the mile long midway. These shows are the same that furnish the entertainment at the Brockton, Mass., Fair and the Danbury, Conn., Fair. The afternoon programs will be featured with professional sanctioned dirt track auto races and both running and trotting horse races. The mammoth exhibition building will house many interesting booths furnished by local manufacturers and merchants and several of the larger buildings will be devoted to live stock, show horses and a big dog show.

Elaborate preparations are being made to handle the largest crowd ever attending a fair in this section of the country and courteous management will look after the interests and safety of the visitors. Ample parking facilities have been provided for automobiles with the addition of a new special auto gate at the end of the fair grounds.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, Aug. 28.—Many city people are now gradually leaving for their homes. Nearly all the boarding houses have been filled during August.

The summer dances at Winchell's Hall will be continued until further notice. Each week there seems to be larger crowds, due largely to Zucca's fine orchestra and the way the dances are conducted. Older people are welcome to come and listen to the catchy songs.

People are glad to see State Troopers on Longyear's turn to prevent accidents which occurred quite frequently last year. Mrs. A. J. Diller has left for her home, Murray Hill, Flushing. Mrs. Diller has been spending the summer at Pine Glen Lodge.

Printed Crepe Is Fashion in Paris

Bright Colors Feature of Interesting Dress Materials Now Worn.

Printed crepes of every type imaginable are being worn in Paris. A simple crepe de chine frock set forth in several shades of green and gray on a darker green ground is popular for summer wear. The whole garment is very plain and semi-tailored, a one-piece frock with a narrow belt of leather. The bodice opens at the front to form a shallow, tailored collar turning back from the V-shaped décolletage. Ball buttons in antique silver give a touch of elegance to the modest little garment. The clasp on the leather belt is likewise of wrought silver to match. The band trimming on the bodice, sleeves and skirt is of plain green crepe. A sort of similar crepe in one tone may be worn with the frock.

An interesting and unusual gown is exceedingly smart and quite new in exception. It is of black crepe de chine, bordered with white organdie and most cleverly draped at the front of the skirt. The whole frock is cut on the bias and the vast amount of fulness which forms the drapery at the front is gathered beneath a kid belt of hunter's green embossed with gold.

Hose and Shoes Must Be Smart to Match Skirts

Skirts are shorter than ever in Paris, according to a fashion authority recently returned, and woe to the woman who does not give careful consideration to her feet and ankles, for they cannot be camouflaged.

"There never was a time when shoes and hosiery were so important as they are now," the same authority declared. "Long ago, when our grandmothers wore white and pale-colored hose, their skirts were long. When the short skirts first came into vogue the hose were black or a dark brown to match the shoes. Now the skirts are at least ten inches from the ground and the stockings are in shades of beige or nude or gray. They are very smart, but very conspicuous."

"The new full-fashioned silk and other hose are very satisfactory for summer dresses. They fit the ankles and are summery and pretty. Care must be taken to wear the right kind of shoes with each gown. The trim-tailored shoes a woman wears with her serge frock are impossible with her patent leather or satin or thin kid shoes with high heels."

"It is careful attention to these details that makes a woman look smart, and it is much more important to have one's clothes smart than becoming. It is not always possible to be both, and the wise woman chooses to be smart."

Imitation Jewelry Is Attractive in Her Hair

The fad for imitation jewelry is reflected in the beautiful ornaments for the hair, in girdles and motifs designed to be worn with the latest models in evening dress in the coming months. They are made of net, studded closely with rhinestones, pearls or colored stones. Some of the bandeaux are so wide as almost to cover the hair; they are brilliantly jeweled, matching sparkling eyes, and are artistic, after an oriental type.

Girdles, ornaments, long-fringed tassels and motifs for applique are all of this kind and are much worn. The latest combs are lovely. The antique combs of the Spanish shape that had such a vogue during the winter, ivory and shell especially, are less seen now than the smaller shapes set with pearls.

The rhinestone combs are far the most popular, and the low wide sort is quite the newest. These combs have an appeal for women who still have their tresses attached. For the one with bobbed locks there are the prettiest flatterer slitters, as well as the wide swathing bandeaux.

Again the Sower

And again the sun blinks out, and the poor sower is casting his grain into the furrow, hopeful he that the soles and far heavenly horologes have not faltered; that there will be yet another summer added for us and another harvest.—Carlyle.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 29, 1924.

If John W. Davis does not make a better case for the Democratic party than he has so far, when he gets back to business his retainers may be fewer and different in amount than they were before he was nominated.

While Democrats are conceding that the nation and state will go overwhelmingly Republican the fact remains that it would be unwise for the Republicans to take anything for granted. Disasters that should have been pronounced victories have been caused by over-confidence.

The result of the reparations conference would indicate whether Republicans knew what they were doing when they picked out the man to submit a plan, and it also indicated whether the Republicans while in Cleveland knew what they were doing when they picked out a candidate for Vice President. The Davies plan is the plan that really made lasting peace possible. Now we should all of us go on doing business.

Usually the high hopes of youth come to fruition only after long striving and waiting, and too often never. A conspicuous exception is that of Giles Gilbert Scott who at the early age of 21 had already developed such architectural genius that his plan for the great Liverpool cathedral was accepted in preference to all those submitted by veterans, and since the beginning of this century he has been engaged in the construction of the noble edifice. The recent consecration of the cathedral was made the occasion of the bestowal of knighthood upon the still young "master-builder."

WHAT ULTIMATE MOTIVES?

What is it that has brought about the change in the attitude of labor toward the principle of protection? In its Buffalo convention of 1917 the Federation of Labor went on record as favoring "a policy of industrial preparedness and the enactment of laws by Congress that will adequately protect all wage earners of our country against loss of employment through any invasion of the products of any other nation." In their Atlantic City convention of 1924 the leaders of the Federation determined to support a party, the platform of which denounces the protective tariff now in force.

Suspicion is aroused that other aims of the third party movement have appealed to those labor organization leaders sufficiently to overshadow their interest in protection. More than once they have openly flouted the authority of the Supreme Court and other Federal judiciaries and have undertaken to coerce Congress into doing their will. It may be they see in the third party an instrument whereby they can increase their own influence over national legislation and over the power of the courts. Perhaps they are willing to sacrifice the larger blessings that would come to the wage earners through a continuance of a protective tariff in order that their personal prestige may be enhanced. Exploitation of the labor vote for individual ends is no new thing.

UNHAMPERED AND EFFICIENT.

The Republican administration has made it possible for the United States to render greater aid to Europe than could ever have been extended under the Democratic policy of entanglement in the League of Nations. In his acceptance address Mr. Davis approves of American entrance into the League. He speaks of "joining, as a free people, the other free peoples of the earth." Of course none of the peoples who have joined the League are free. Were the terms of the covenant to be strictly interpreted, as it was expected they would be when the document was made public, the member nations would find their independence substantially curtailed at many points. Even were they inclined to aid each other, they would find their actions so hedged about with League limitations as to discourage cooperation.

The United States has remained independent of the League and, as a consequence, is truly free. It consults no one but its own people in forming its relations with other nations, and does not have to await the approval of a central body at Geneva before suggesting armaments limitations, Dawes plans, or the extension of credit. Europe has reason to be eternally grateful that Republicans of this country successfully resisted the determined drive to make the United States a member of the League of Nations.

That Body of Yours

REMOVING THE CAUSE.

It has been interesting to follow the trend of the physicians and research men who have been investigating goitre.

Twenty years ago these men thought that the enlargement was always due to too much lime in the drinking water.

This had been the prevailing opinion for a great many years.

It was discovered later that iodine, externally, and later internally, seemed to reduce the size of the swelling.

From this grew the idea that the eating of sea fish would be of benefit, and it was shown that people who practically lived on sea food were free from goitre.

Then it was noticed that some people with a goitrous condition had other conditions of the body that were not normal, particularly the heart. The heart was beating many extra beats to the minute and was sometimes irregular. Accompanying this was a tremor of the muscles, and a bulging of the eyes.

Then for awhile goitre was blamed for the condition of the heart, because the thyroid gland is a regulator of different functions of the body. The removal of a part of the gland helped many cases. But research men have gone even further now, and state that just as poisonous substances manufactured in the teeth, tonsils, and nose are causing joint and muscular disturbances, so also do they effect the glands and other organs of the body, and that when this poisonous substance gets into the circulation, it interferes with the secretion of the thyroid and changes the structure.

That is, that the same poisonous condition that effects the heart, affects the thyroid gland also. It is for this reason that often where the physician was doing everything to help the general condition of a goitrous patient with a badly acting heart, that the removal of bad teeth and tonsils, the clearing up of some chronic nose or ear condition, or a sluggish liver and intestine, he has had the great satisfaction of getting a complete cure of the heart and goitrous condition.

It is a great idea to get all such poisons out of the system by baths, perspiration, and the cleansing of the intestine.

It is a greater idea to prevent the manufacture of these poisons by removing the cause.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

CATHERINE RUSH.

Medical annals have recorded few cases of longevity like that of Catherine Rush, who died in Philadelphia on May 1, 1817, aged 110 years and 11 months. She had lived on the outskirts of the City of Brotherly Love all her life, first attracting attention when she passed the century mark. The remarkable part of it was that she seemed to grow more vigorous with advancing years, having been very frail as a girl. Her ambition was to reach the age of 112 years; of this she failed by thirteen months.

POLYGAMY.

The first "revelation," commanding polygamy by the Normans, was publicly announced by Brigham Young, then president of the sect, 72 years ago today. This doctrine, which created a sensation throughout the world, was subsequently confirmed by other "divine revelations" received by Young, who has long since been abandoned. Young died August 29, 1877, forty-seven years ago today, exactly 25 years after he proclaimed polygamy as necessary to salvation.

He practiced what he preached, as he left 17 widows, 16 sons and 28 daughters to mourn his loss.

BEHEADING OF ST. JOHN.

(Diocletian Era.)

The first record of any historical event for August 29, was the beheading of St. John, the Baptist, which took place on August 29 in the year A. D. 30. The date is also the anniversary of the birth of King Herod, tetrarch of Galilee, who was banished by Emperor Caligula to Spain or Lyons with Herodias, in the year 33.

The era of Diocletian, or the Martyrs, begins on August 29, in the year 243. It is still used by the Coptic and Abyssinians and receives its name from the persecutions of the Christians in the reign of Diocletian and was much used by the Christian writers until the introduction of the Christian era, in the sixth century.

SHOULD FARM WOMEN WORK OUTSIDE THE HOME?

To what extent should the farm woman help with the outside chores on the farm? Is it necessary that she should carry the burden of the house and also give her labor in the barn and field?

E. R. Eastman, editor of the American Agriculturist raises these questions and sets forth their pros and cons in the current issue of the magazine. His conclusion is that there is a middle-of-the-road solution, based on individual conditions and giving the woman her share in the labors without unnecessarily sacrificing her strength and energy.

He sums up the case against the use of woman-labor in the fields as follows:

"Too many farm women grow old before their time," says Mr. Eastman. "Too many of them have too little recreation and too much isolation. Women are by nature more joyous creatures than men, but too often environment on a farm has taken out of them much of the joy of living, so that not only have they suffered but the men and children have lost that which God gave them in their women folks to cheer them in their many discouragements in life."

"So much for the social side of too much hard work for the women. Economically, there has, in my opinion, been much of wrong also. The cheaper free labor of women folks on the farm has been one of the chief reasons for the low prices of farm products. Our fathers have too often given away the fertile soil in the too cheap products, which we sold to the cities. And to this gift, they have thrown in for good measure that precious commodity, the free labor of their wives and children."

On the other hand he sees some good points in the idea and tells of an incident to illustrate them:

"A few years ago there was a farmer up in Livingston county who had a farm which was heavily loaded with debt. His creditors were continually nagging him and the constant strain made life for him a pretty sad proposition. He finally went to the director of a local bank and asked for help. The bank sent representatives out to the farm. They found the house in good order, but the wife was out milking the cows. They went back and reported the bank paid all of the debts and loaned the farmer enough cash in addition to buy needed implements. Today the debt is paid off, the farm is free and clear, and the farmer and his wife are prosperous. Later, the director told the farmer that the bank made its loan on the report of its representatives which read: 'If a man's wife takes as much interest in the business as that woman does, and at the same time has her own affairs in such good shape, then it is a pretty good indication that there is a good team at work and we recommend them as a good risk.'"

Mr. Eastman therefore recommends a reasonable amount of outdoor farm work, but as a substitute for household work and not an addition to it. He says that many farmers, short of labor and fighting to make any profit at all on their crops may object that they simply cannot afford to start a reform in this line.

PINE HILL.

Pine Hill, Aug. 28.—The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will hold their annual harvest supper at the church hall on Saturday evening. Dr. C. Wolfe, of Allaben, made a professional visit to Pine Hill on Wednesday.

U. S. Grant Morgan, of Jacksonville, Florida, is in town visiting his mother. A large number of the guests at the different hotels have returned to their homes during the past week. John France made an automobile trip to Dobbs Ferry on Wednesday. The musicians at the New Mount-ain Inn, will hold their last dance of the season, at the inn on Saturday evening.

E. B. Bowerman and his mother motored to Kingston on Thursday. William Rogers and family, who have resided at Pine Hill for a number of years past, have moved to Fleischmanns, where Mr. Rogers is engaged in the plumbing business.

F. C. Bodge has placed concrete posts and a neat wire fence in front of his property along the Pine Hill road, which improves the appearance of the place very much.

The pupils and teachers at Weingart Institute, at Highmount, will return to their homes on Sunday.

Nearly all of the larger hotels at this place will close next week.

Inventor Unknown

The history of the monkey-wrench is obscure. Even the origin of the term "monkey" in the name is unknown. It is commonly believed, however, that a London blacksmith named Moncke (pronounced "Munk") made some of the first wrenches with movable jaws adjustable by a screw. Such wrenches were called Moncke wrenches. Owing to ignorance of the origin and spelling of the name it was easily corrupted into "monkey." But this story is not supported by any definite information. The United States patent office says it can find no record of a patent having been granted by the British government to Moncke for such a wrench.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Works of Art in Copper

Copper ornaments that were made between 6,500 and 9,000 years ago are dug up near Ur, city of ancient Babylonia. Blade thousands of years before King Tut was born, these copper ornaments are among the earliest works of art. They express the infancy of the creative spirit. The Babylonian copper objects represent men and omen. In addition to being art, they were intended as a history of accomplishment—main motive of which is vanity.—Farm and Fireside.

To Clean Rusty Steel

Rusty steel ornaments, fire irons and the like may be cleaned by being rubbed well with sweet oil, enough of the oil being allowed to remain on the article to soak in for some time.

Despotic Tribunal

The Star chamber was a tribunal in England consisting of a committee of the king's privy council, instituted, or revived by Henry VII in 1486. It had extensive powers and held itself untrammelled by rules of law, dealt with civil and criminal cases by bill and indictment, without the intervention of a jury, and could inflict any form of punishment short of death. It was abolished by act of parliament in 1641, in the reign of Charles I. The court said to have derived its name, either from the gilt stars that adorned the ceiling of the chamber in the old palace at Westminster, where it held its sessions; or as is more probable, from the Jewish bonds (stars), deposited there by permission of William I.

Paper Currency

It has been computed that the cost to the United States of making a $1 bill is about as great as to make a $20 or a $10,000 bill. The expense is 1.3 cents each. The length of service varies in direct ratio to the value of the note. The $1 bill lasts little more than a year, it is estimated, a $10 bill lasts about four years, while a $10,000 bill obviously, seldom wears out.

Family Watch

A man in St. Louis has a watch on which the numerals of the face have been replaced with tiny photographs of the members of his family. He himself is 1 o'clock, his wife is 2 o'clock, his oldest child is 3 o'clock, and the other figures are covered by the pictures of the remainder of his ten children. 12 o'clock being the baby of the family.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

HEAPING MEASURES

IN OUR dealings with others, in our social contacts and communication, if we give heaping measure, whether it be good or evil, it will return some day before the ending of our career, to cheer or depress us.

A kindly word spoken to a boy or girl, as he or she steps upon the threshold of life to do battle, is never forgotten, nor is the frown or the expletive that condemns and finds fault without reason.

The human heart keeps an accurate diary. It records events which in later life, as the yellowed pages are fingered, startle men and women out of their senses. The blots and tears, the underscored sentences, written so hastily, and sometimes boldly and defiantly, tell the tale of the years that are gone.

Mother and father, who chided us for our waywardness, never discontinued giving us heaping measures of love, which often in our irresponsible moments we rejected. Now that they are not with us, we understand their kindness and comprehend our own frailties.

Thinking of them in the morning when we shave our stubby beard, or apply the lip-stick and powder puff, we resolve to do good; and make everybody we meet brighter and happier. And usually we make a pitiful job of it.

We may become accustomed to the vagaries of our friends and acquaintances, and overlook their follies, but we can never accustom ourselves to the niggardly and those who give scant measure, even if we happen to be miserly ourselves.

In spite of his contemptible practices, the skinflint likes liberality from others.

He may sometimes look forward to the day when he shall be open-handed and smiling, but the day never arrives, as there are in his nature too many contrivances blocking the way.

All that is good, noble and beautiful comes from the beneficent hand that heaps the measure, and, in the future, the soul that prompts the hand shall reap a bountiful reward which no earth-made coin can buy. Heap your measure with love and kindness, top it off with smiles of cheer, then in the hour when the mean shall grovel in the darkness, you shall be glorified, at peace with yourself and with all the sons of men.

Held Many High Offices

SCHOOL DAYS

THE AFTERWHILES

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

M DAD was queer about some things; I never heard him worry much. That other people lived like kings. While we had little such and such. I used to think our lot was hard. Because there wasn't much in sight; He said I wouldn't afterward—And he was right.

For, looking backward down the years, I seldom think of what we had. I just remember smiles and tears. And things like that—and mostly dad.

I don't remember who were poor, I don't remember who were rich; I can't remember now for sure Just which was which.

You just remember joys and pains. You had together, that is all; Some simple memory remains. That makes mere money mighty small.

I just remember tears and smiles. The rest is lost to sense and sight. Dad said these made the afterwhiles—And dad was right.

DISHES FOR THE CAMPER

A GOOD, hot sandwich which may be eaten and enjoyed out of doors is an egg and onion sandwich. Use a little butter, the amount depending upon the number of eggs to be cooked, add a sliced onion and fry until well-cooked in the butter, then add the eggs and enough milk to cook until smooth, stirring well all the time. Place on buttered bread and cover with another slice.

Hamburger steak made in small cakes and cooked over a baking sheet set over coals is a most appetizing dish to eat out of doors. Season the meat well with chopped onion, salt and pepper and use a pancake turner to turn the meat. Tender green onions and potato salad are good accompaniments.

A nice dessert which may be served with any kind of fresh berries in season is sponge cake or angel food, cut into squares and served with crushed and sweetened strawberries.

Baked beans are always a good dish for a camping party. Fried chicken, which has been fried and packed at home, or steak cooked in a frying pan over the campfire are all good. Fresh fish caught and dressed, cooked and ready to eat in a short time after they are taken from the water, are a dish which almost anybody will enjoy. Fry them in plenty of butter and serve them crisp, brown and well-done.

Rice and Egg Dish.

Take one-half cupful of rice, wash and drain, add a tablespoonful of butter with the rice in the pan, fry until yellow, add water and cook until the rice is tender, then add a little milk, seasonings and three beaten eggs; stir until the eggs are scrambled. This makes a dish which extends the egg, and one which is both appetizing and wholesome.

Fish Chowder.

Take a two or three-pound fish, clean and bone it and cut it into small-sized pieces. Take one-half pound of salt pork cut into slices then into dice and cook until brown in a deep chowder kettle. Add three or four onions sliced, and six potatoes also sliced, cover with boiling water and cook for a few minutes before adding the fish, then cook until the fish is well-done. Season well, add a quart of rich milk and half a dozen milk crackers dipped in boiling water. Serve with a cracker in each bowl.

Few Have, or Acquire, Good Thinking Habits

The average man works about eight hours a day, or is supposed to. The rest of the time is divided about equally, so the theory runs, between recreation and sleep.

Of the 16 waking hours how many are devoted to thinking? Psychologists tell us that a tenth is a liberal allowance, and, in actual practice, from that down. Only a little more than an hour and a half out of the twenty-four occupied in thinking!

Thinking is one of the most difficult and trying of occupations, says Collier's. Were this not so it is probable that we might spend more time at it. To prove this, try to concentrate your mind on the book you have just read; on the lecture you have recently listened to; on the important interview you have just had. Try to remember and recount to yourself, item by item, just as much as you can of the thing you read or listened to. It will surprise you. Unless you have trained

Glass Flowers Close Imitation of Nature

Marvelous artificial blooms that resemble nature's finest specimens in every respect except scent, are now being made by expert glassblowers.

Every part of the flower or plant is faithfully reproduced, from the long, delicate stems and colored petals to the almost invisible pollen.

The first thing which the maker of these wonderful blooms does is to blow the petals from glass as thin and fragile as tissue paper. The glass petals are then shaped and colored exactly like the natural ones.

Some of the rarer plants cannot be easily reproduced, and often several experiments have to be carried out with different colors before a really good imitation is obtained.

These glass flowers are used extensively in museums, both to show details of plant or flower formation and as backgrounds for displaying specimens of birds and beasts.

The Cob Dollar

The "cob dollar" was a Spanish dollar which at one time had wide circulation in the United States. In 1778, when the articles of confederation were adopted, the cob or Spanish dollar was used in practically all business transactions throughout the colonies. Owing to its convenience it was adopted with slight change as our standard dollar. Even the dollar sign originated on these cob dollars coined in Spain and her American colonies. The smaller Spanish coins representing fractions of the cob dollar were called "cob money."

Marlboro Wins Barnyard Golf Championship

Usher County Picnic on Thursday—Staples and Hunter Make Thirteen Rings in Marlborough-Gardiner Game—Winners Go to State Fair.

There comes a time in the life of champions when they are forced to bow to the inevitable—namely, a little better than themselves.

That time came in the life of the supposedly invincible Gardiner when he pitched team at the Usher County Picnic on Thursday afternoon when the Marlborough team, the dark horses of the annual barnyard golf tournament, forged to the front and handed the champions of 1922 and 1923 a decisive trimming in the semi-finals. The Marlborough team, composed of C. E. Staples and James Hunter, then headed the Chamber of Commerce team of this city a still more decisive victory and as a result found themselves the duly accredited "barnyard golf champions" for the county of Ulster for the year 1924.

An unusual amount of interest was taken in the tournament this year as Gardiner needed to win the permanent possession of the handsome cup which has now gone into the hands of the Marlborough team. Furthermore Staples and Hunter will now enjoy a trip to the state fair at Syracuse where they will attempt to bring back to Marlborough and Usher county the state barnyard golf championship.

The Preliminary Matches.

Ten teams were entered in the tournament and at the outset the spectators were uncertain which teams to watch. Soon, however, the teams became aware of the fact that an unusually close match was developing between the Kerhonkson team and the Masons. This match was nip and tuck all the time until the end when the Kerhonkson team assumed a 44-38 lead and then ran it up to a 49-45 lead, with one point needed to win the game. The Masons were not done yet, however, and staging a last minute spurt they scored five points and the match.

Another close match developed between Gardiner, the playing-through champions, and Shawangunk. Gardiner finally forced to the front and won by a 51-43 score.

Marlborough vs. Gardiner.

Very naturally the feature of the semi-final matches was the contest between Gardiner and Marlborough. Green, the leader of the Gardiner team, was evidently way off his usual mark on Thursday, as he did not benefit to make rangers with his accustomed frequency.

On the other hand the Marlborough team established a record for the number of rings in one game when Staples and Hunter made thirteen during the contest. Although the contest was not as close as it was expected it would be it caused a great deal of excitement as both teams had large number of enthusiastic rooters on hand.

Due to the fact that there were only three teams left for the semi-finals after the preliminaries, Marlborough was called upon to play two games before reaching the finals.

In eliminating the championship team, they were called upon to meet the strong Quarryville team. This match was one of the closest of the tournament, the Marlborough representatives finally winning out by a 51-49 score.

The Final Match.

The Chamber of Commerce team, composed of Roosa and Burns, did not give the Marlborough representatives much trouble in the final match, Marlborough winning by a 51-45 score.

The Contestants.

The following men were entered in the tournament:
Gardiner, Gray and Dore.
Marlborough, Staples and Hunter.
Masons, DuPont and Scott.
Kerhonkson, Schoonmaker and Kerhonkson.
Quarryville, Earl Hummel and H. Hummel.
Clintondale, Palmer and Gaffney.
Shawangunk, Tice and Furman.
Walkhill, F. Stang and C. Sumwalt.
Chamber of Commerce, A. J. Burns and Roosa.
Lake Katrine, McKenzie and Davis.

CHEVROLETS HAVE TWO HARD GAMES OVER WEEK END.

Bullitt's Kingston Chevrolets will play two games of ball over the Labor Day holiday season, both at Poughkeepsie. On Sunday the Kingston Chevrolets will play the Chichester team at Fleischmanns. The Chichester aggregation has lost but the game this season and undoubtedly will furnish some real opposition to the fast Chevrolet team. Chichester, who is pitching for the Chichester team this season, will probably be in the box for the second game.

On Labor Day the Saugerties Chevrolet team will be the opponents of the Kingston Chevrolets.

The game will be played at the summer resort town and will provide the only game. Manager Wilbur is anxious to win two hard games, is giving his team a thorough grooming and expects to capture both of the

Athletic Events At County Picnic

Many Contestants Enjoyed Sports and Won Prizes—Crowd Enjoyed Fun, Too—List of Winners.

Athletic events at the Farm and Home Bureau picnic at Forsyth Park on Thursday afternoon attracted an unusually large number of entries from among the boys and girls of the city and county.

The interest in these events was shown by the crowd which filled the shaded slope leading from the grove to the athletic field, and also stood in the sun on the field and along the earth dike which was built along the opposite side of the field several years ago to convert the field into a skating pond in winter.

Prizes were distributed at the close of the events, but some of the prize winners did not present their winners' cards to get their prizes. Any prize winner who failed to get his or her prize should present the winners' card at the store of Sam Bernstein & Company, Wall and North Front streets.

The events were run off under the direction of Alfred W. Builey, physical director of the Kingston city schools, assisted by Sam Bernstein, Jr., Ernest W. Kearney, Robert J. Service, C. E. Wenderly and Dr. Julius I. Gifford.

Colonials Defeat D. & H. Generals

At Fair Grounds On Thursday Afternoon by a 5-3 Score—Forsythe Hits and Pitches Exceptionally Well.

The Colonials showed every sign of coming out of their recent slump Thursday when they came from behind to win from the D. & H. Generals by a 5-3 score. Their playing was far from the sloppy exhibition given against the All Stars Wednesday and their hitting was just about what it should be.

Eddie Rossback and Rube Forsythe hooked up in a fine battle and Rube's superior pitching and hitting were the big factors in the Colonials' victory. Had Eddie been as proficient with the willow as the New Paltz boy, the two teams might have been playing yet but—the game's in the Colonial batting.

Forsythe in Good Form.

Rube had worlds of stuff on the ball yesterday and deserved a far better score than the board showed at the end of the nine innings. Both of the early tallies scored by Phelps and Forsythe were the results of fluky hits through the infield, and the last run was the only one really deserved. Rube turned the visitors' eighth innings after getting in tight holes. His flawless support helped him a great deal.

The hitting heroes were Forsythe, Raskin and Robbins for the Colonials, and Perry Marterer and Grady for the Generals. Kelly Herbst went hitless, getting four flies and fanning once.

Generals Score.

Phelps scored the first run in the opening inning. He was sacrificed to second by Sandy after singling to right. Marterer hit one through short that Flynn couldn't quite reach and Eddie, Jr., ambled to third, and from there scored on Herbst's long fly to Raskin. Singles by Colket, Grady and Rossback sent the Generals further in the lead in seventh but one safety was made off Rube's delivery.

The Colonials put men on second and third after two were out in the first but Flynn's best effort was a blazer to short which left the runners stranded. Coyle singled in the second with one out but Robbins and Rube were unsuccessful in their attempts to produce the scoring punch. Another Colonial hit was wasted in the third.

The Generals filled the bases in the fourth with two out. Grady beat out an infield rap and Rube momentarily lost control, walking Rossback and hitting Phelps, filling the sacks. Sandy hit to Deegan and was retired at first.

Colonials Tie Score.

The fourth saw the battle really start. Doubles by Schwab and Jack Robbins scored the first run and Rube helped in the winning of the game by sending the tying run scurrying across the plate with a sharp one-baser to center. There the score stayed until Rube again took a hand in things.

Colonials Forge Ahead.

Porky Flynn got his first hit to start the sixth inning rally. Schwab sacrificed him along a base and Coyle broke the tie with a Texas Leagueer which fell safely in center. Herbst took the ball get by him and Coyle took second, Flynn scoring. Forman followed Robbins' fly to center with a single to right, sending Coyle home. Rube tried to make second but was cut down.

In both the seventh and eighth the Generals got two men aboard the bases with but one out but Forsythe was too good in the pinches. Herbst and Hickey obliged with easy flies after Sandy and Marterer had hit safely. Schermerhorn and Grady hit safely in the eighth. Colket hustling to Raskin. Colket came to a fast double play on Rossback's grounder. Mack threw to Deegan, forcing Grady and Coyle could just manage to pull down Deegan's relay to retiring the twirler at first.

Colonials Score Again.

The Colonials forged still further in the lead in the seventh. After Deegan had singled and stolen second, Raskin sent him across with the last Colonial hit of the day.

Generals Score One.

After wasting two hits in the seventh and another pair in the eighth, the visitors managed to couple their last two safe blows with a sacrifice for a run in the final session. Sandy and Marterer were the hitters and again it was Herbst who sacrificed the runner home. Kelly drove in two runs without hitting safely yesterday, his sacrifices accounting for the first and last of the railroaders' tallies.

Jack Britton Essays Comeback

Lott Shows What Plugging Will Do

As He Defeats Chapin, 6-4, 7-5, 10-14, in One of Most Remarkable Tennis Matches Fans Have Ever Witnessed—Matches Scheduled for Today.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Forest Hills, L. I., Aug. 29.—Only fourth round matches were scheduled for today in the forty-fourth annual national tennis singles tournament now in progress at the West Side Tennis Club here. Only three entrants have progressed into the fifth round and they will rest today.

The rest will be welcome without doubt to George M. Lott, Jr., the young junior champion from Chicago, who played himself to a point of practical exhaustion in winning from A. H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass. Lott is thrown against Gerald B. Patterson, captain of the Australian Davis Cup team and one of the world's best singles players in his fifth round match.

What was expected to be the best match of the day will put Rene Lacoste of France on the grandstand courts for the first time since the tournament opened. He was to meet Brian I. C. Norton of St. Louis.

William T. Tilden, II, of Philadelphia, the playing through champion was not expected to have much difficulty with Jack Wright of Canada.

Vincent Richards is the only other of the seeded stars who faces probable difficulty. He is paired with Dean Mathey of New York.

William M. Johnston of California is paired for the fourth round with M. Okamoto, of Japan.

Only three foreign players now are left in the competition. They are Patterson, LeCote and Jack Wright.

Lott's Great Fight.

The greatest exhibition of bulldog determination that tennis fans have witnessed in a good many years took place yesterday when George M. Lott, the sensational junior from Chicago, defeated Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., by a score of 6-4, 7-5, 10-14.

It was only by summoning every ounce of stamina that he possessed that Lott pulled himself through in the final set of thirty games. Long before the set reached the half-way mark Lott was showing unmistakable signs of strain. This was no marked that Lott began dropping games on service, as though sheer weariness prevented him from taking advantage of the situation. Chapin, too, was a very tired young athlete at this stage. Lott seemed to feel that a fourth set might prove dangerous to his chances, so he put all he had into that last desperate struggle.

In the last four sets he had to literally goad himself to go to the net and take returns on the volley. If ever persistent plugging and the "will to win" won a tennis match, then these things won yesterday for this sturdy junior from the Middle West.

SOUTHERN PLAYERS ARE MAKING GOOD

Twenty-Four Stars From Dixie Now in Majors.

The "all-star" picks seldom mean more than empty honors.

Baseball stars on all-southern picks within the past few years, however, have proven an exception and collectively would make a fairly strong major league team.

Approximately 24 players, a standard big league club, are rated as regulars or near-regulars in the majors today after serving in southern colleges.

Joe Sewell and Riggs Stephenson, with Cleveland, are probably the more notable of the infielders. Both are from the University of Alabama. Chick Galloway, of the Athletics, is a South Carolina university alumnus. Joe Evans, of St. Louis, and Frank Ellerbe, of Cleveland are grads of Mississippi A. & M. and Sewanee, respectively. Del Pratt, of Detroit, graduated from Alabama.

The majors have several southern college outfielders. Gink Hendrick, of the Yankees, was all-southern from Vanderbilt in 1920. Red Wingo of the Tigers was at Oglethorpe in 1919. Bib Falk, of the White Sox, was a Texas university star. Ike Boone, of Boston, was a star at Alabama in 1918.

In catching Alabama furnished Luke Sewell and Tennessee had Hank Deberry's services for four years.

Pitchers are not so numerous, though Lefty Wingard, of St. Louis, never played professional ball except in the majors, after leaving Alabama. Jim Edwards, of the Indians, was an ace for Mississippi A. & M.

The 1920 all-southern outfield was composed of Gink Hendrick, Roy Carlyle and Claude Satterfield. Hendrick is rated as a $100,000 prize with the Yankees. Carlyle is the Southern league's battle leader and the property of Washington. Satterfield is in the International league.

Other Dixie collegians are under contract to report to the majors at the close of their school careers. There's no other section that can boast so many college stars in big-time baseball.

The famous Lakes of Killarney are three connected bodies of water, one of which is about a mile and a half from the town of Killarney. They are situated in the midst of the Kerry mountains.

Dazzy Vance Is Marvelous National League Pitcher

Dazzy Vance, marvelous pitcher of the Brooklyn National League club, depends upon blinding speed to battle his opponents. Sport writers in various cities look to him to lead all major league boxmen this season and set a new strike-out record. Vance was with the New York Yankees six years ago, but developed a sore arm and dropped out of the game for four years.

Kinsey Springs Surprise

Howard Kinsey of California sprang the greatest surprise of the tennis season when he defeated the veteran William M. Johnston in the finals of the annual Seabright tennis tourney. The victory of the younger player brings him into consideration as a likely member of the American Davis cup team.

LACK OF FOOTBALL STARS AT HARVARD

Coach Fisher Inclined to Put Blame on Alumni.

Robert T. Fisher, football coach at Harvard, has recently bewailed the lack of good material at Cambridge and said he was inclined to blame the alumni for this lack of desirable gridiron talent.

The trouble with the Harvard alumni, Fisher believes, is that they do not talk Harvard enough among the youth of the land. The alumni of other colleges and universities go about talking so much of the alma mater that they leave no doubt in the minds of youngsters of playing talent where to go for a college education and football fame.

Harvard, it seems, is sadly in need of a loud and vigorous bullhounding. There is no doubt that Mr. Fisher is fairly convinced that Yale has Harvard smothered when it comes to this gentle art. Considering the work of the Yale football eleven last autumn, the marvelous record of her vastly roving eight this spring and the showing of some of her other teams, the good old Eli institution has been thoroughly bullhounded in this broad and favored land in recent years.

No coach can get out winning teams unless he has the material, says Mr. Fisher, and no school can get the desired material unless the alumni gets busy and sends the right kind of boys along.

Harvard has not been getting enough of the desired type of athletes and unless the alumni hustles out and sells Harvard on all sides the ancient rival of the Cambridge school will again rise to the eminent position she once held over Harvard in sports. From what the 1923-24 intercollegiate records show Yale is fairly well started in doing exactly that.

Can you check your valuations against your insurance?

Can your accounting department place on your desk a statement showing first of all your property values and your investments, and show against them a dovetailing group of policies whose total is equivalent to the aggregate value of what you own?

This is not in any way an idle question. You will probably find two or three unexpected and serious discrepancies. There may have been a number of additions to the property—uninsured. There may have been changes in valuations without corresponding adjustments of policy contracts. You may even find that the original schedules were not as complete as you thought they were.

All these things mean loss.

Hudson Mills In Bankruptcy

Under the heading "Equity Receivers Appointed" the New York Times in its financial pages Saturday had the following:

The Hudson Mills, Inc., manufacturers of shirts, 303 Fifth avenue, Robert H. Gay appointed, under $10,000 bond, by Judge Goddard upon the complaint of Charles A. Dunn, a creditor for $3,400, and the consent of the corporation. Liabilities about $30,000; assets about $35,000.

It is understood that this is the same concern for which a stock selling campaign was organized in Kingston some time ago by a man named Harding and in which a number of local people bought stock. During the stock selling campaign street gossip stated that it was expected that the concern would take over the entire output of the shirt factories of Kingston and handle it on a plan of "selling direct to the consumer."

During the stock selling campaign an office was opened in Kingston. The New York Telephone directory lists the Hudson Mills, Inc., 160 Clinton avenue, as having a telephone but when an attempt was made to call the number it was stated that the telephone of the Hudson Mills had been discontinued.

The company had purchased shirts in small quantities from various factories in this city but, fortunately, was not given credit. For a time it operated the Charchian shirt factory under a lease by which Mr. Charchian's interests were well guarded. The Charchian factory will continue under management of the owners.

The Hudson Valley Company is reported to have maintained luxurious offices in New York. The organizer, Mr. Harding, is a promoter and stock salesman who had been in Kingston on business before he organized the shirt company. He claimed to be a cousin of President Harding and was a very suave and persuasive gentleman.

FABRIC TREATMENTS OLD AND NEW

(By Eleanor Gunn).

The slashed tunic and sleeves conjure up visions of merrie England in the days about which Shakespeare loved to write—another proof that fashion is forever looking backward for inspiration and repeating the best she finds.

Now that the Paris openings for autumn are past history—as far as the trade is concerned—and the wearers-to-be are being permitted glimpses of the models about which we have read so much, we are once more impressed with the ingenuity of the French in turning old ideas into new, and reawakening interest in things of the long ago.

Callot, who enjoys the reputation of being the world's greatest dressmaker, experiments anew with the apron. These famous sisters even employ the apron motif for their suits, and add a decorative band at the hips of many models and introduce some fulness in sleeves above the elbow—a decided innovation.

Most of the haute couture unite in a sponsorship of fringe. Callot, of course has always been noted for the luxurious softly draped sort of thing which may be elaborated further by fringe, and continues to use exquisite laces and embroideries. All are more or less united concerning the importance of the tunic. Charlotte develops all tunics separately from the foundation which makes for economy and variety, and employs the bias to advantage in many of them. Many of Charlotte's models have a flare and not a few have intricate yoke treatments. She pays homage to the Directorate in a creamy lace gown, but sponsors the low waistline for the majority of her models.

INCREASED INTEREST IN ZONING LAWS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—The people of the United States are showing an increased interest in zoning to control the use, height and area of buildings in various districts of their communities, and in consequence zoning laws have been enacted or are being considered by nearly every state in the Union. The first step is to adopt a state zoning enabling act after which the authorities of the cities, towns, borough, villages or other municipalities may adopt zoning ordinances to fit local conditions.

Thirteen of the states that have enacted zoning legislation since January 1, 1923, have used all or a substantial portion of "A Standard State Zoning Enabling Act," which was prepared by the Advisory Committee on Zoning of the Department of Commerce to serve as a model for those desiring to introduce zoning legislation in their states. The great care used in the preparation of the Standard Act had much to do with its favorable reception.

During 1925 the legislatures of 34 states will meet, most of them early in January, and it is expected that zoning legislation will occupy a prominent place on the legislative calendars. In nine of these states which have not as yet passed zoning legislation, various groups plan to have zoning enabling acts considered early in the sessions. In some of the other 25 states, which now have zoning laws, plans are being made to extend the application of their acts since they grant the privilege of zoning only to single cities or specific groups. With 41 new municipalities reported since January 1, 1924, the number of zoning ordinances now in effect throughout the United States totals 261. In addition the City of Boston adopted a comprehensive ordinance while Omaha, Nebraska, revised its comprehensive ordinance.

POOR EYESIGHT PREVENTS MOST MARINE ENLISTMENTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, August 29.—Poor eyesight is responsible for the rejection of one-quarter of the applicants who apply for enlistment in the Marine Corps at their recruiting station on East Twenty-third street, here, according to Major Richard H. Tebbis, Jr., the officer in charge. Defective teeth are also a great factor in preventing many adventurous young men who apply for enlistment fail in the physical tests. Major Tebbis states that this percentage is less than that of neighboring states where in some cases rejections are more than fifty per cent. Nationwide statistics are not available but it is believed that New York state men are fully up to the physical standard shown by men elsewhere as evidenced by the fact that more Marines are recruited in this state than in any other state in the Union.

Major Tebbis believes that many of the defects which prevent enlistment could be avoided if medical advice were taken before the applicants reach enlistment age. Eye and teeth defects are known to be largely preventable, while faulty respiration and heart troubles are often caused by the excessive use of tobacco. Flat feet, known to the medical profession as "pes planus," appears to be principally occupational in origin as the majority of men found with this defect are motormen, policemen, machinists, waiters, store clerks and others who must stand up at their work.

While thirty per cent of the men from seeing the world with the sea soldiers.

BRIG. GEN. GEORGE MOSELEY

Brigadier-General George Van Horn Moseley, U. S. A., in command at Camp Custer, Mich., has notified Ku Klux Klansmen that he has laid machine gun fire on a hill on the reservation, and that if the masked Knights attempt to hold another rally on Government property while National Guardsmen are encamped there, he will take them under his fire. Under his orders 35 Klansmen were arrested. General Moseley served on General Pershing's staff in the World War and is considered one of the most brilliant young officers in the Army.

Feather Trimmings One of Season's Fashions

Fashion and feathers are synonymous this season. Introduced several months ago, feather trimming was somewhat slow in being taken up by the general feminine public, but at the moment it is one of the salient points of the fashions of summer. For dresses it is perhaps better in more delicate colorings, while one sees the vivid tones used on wraps or to finish the ends of skirts. Feather-trimmed frocks of white or pale pink chiffon or crepe de chine are really lovely and are chosen by a number of the smartest women.

Frequently the feathers are clipped to suggest a flat band which at a distance gives the effect of fur, but quite often they take the form of delicate fringes.

Antiquity and Whiskers

Tradition says that Adam wore a full beard. That is quite a natural supposition since that was before the time of razor advertisements. Beautifully executed bas reliefs have left no doubt that the early Persian kings cultivated whiskers. In fact, for further adornment they plaited them with golden thread. The Winged Bulls of Assyria are but types of those kings. The Chinese are a shaven people; the Egyptians were the same. But the Mohammedans are bearded, and Saladin's son, Turkish historians tell us, wept for four years when he saw the shaven envoys of the Crusaders. The world is, and always has been, divided into shavers and bearded. The greatest benefactor of barbers in the world's history was Alexander. He, who shaved himself to preserve his youth, shaved his army to prevent the enemy seeing their beards.

Venetian Glass

Venice has long led the world in the manufacture of beautiful glassware. Glass works were early established in that city and the taking of Constantinople in 1204 gave the Venetians the opportunity of acquiring additional knowledge of the art. During the Fourteenth century beads, false stones, and imitations of jewels, rather than cups and the like, seem to have been the chief productions of the Venetian workman. Venetian glass is usually of extreme thinness, being nearly always blown, and there is an endless variety to be found in the shapes and in the application of color. Glass-blowing, like throwing clay on the potter's wheel, induces beautiful curved forms and strength of substance.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 29.—Though prices were inclined slightly higher in the majority of active stocks in the stock market today, trading followed the same lines as in the previous session with transactions greatly reduced and the market dominated by professional traders. Prices saw-sawed until well after the noon hour when an effort was made to "run in" some of the shorts, and pool specialties were advanced from 2 to 5 points on fairly aggressive market action.

As a rule the best price gains were made today by the stocks which declined severely under bearish attacks near the close of the previous session. Attempts to break the market still further at the opening were generally unavailing, despite the unsteady position of the oil stocks. Heavy selling of the Pan-American over Pacific coast wires following the publication of its semi-annual report served to unsettle further the oil stock list.

Motor stocks took a prominent place in the rally which featured the fourth hour.

General Electric, East Iron Pipe, American Can and U. S. Steel against which a large share of the bearish attacks had been directed, staged an impressive rally with General Electric leading with a 5 point gain at 273.

The Frisco railroad issues, which were most active in the early trading, gave way to Pittsburgh and West Virginia later in the session and this stock sold at the highest price of the year, as rumors persisted that the road will eventually be included in the greater Nickel Plate consolidation.

The steel stocks were in good form and showed few tendencies to follow the market into lower levels. Slight reactions occurred in prices of prime bonds on the listed bond market; grain prices did not hold so well; the cotton was again reactionary; foreign exchange steady and money rates unchanged.

Four Murders In One Night

New York Investigating Crimes Have No Clue to Slayers' Identity—One Victim Not Yet Identified.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 29.—Police today were investigating four murders which occurred last night, apparently without any clue to the identity of the slayers.

A belief is held that two men, whose bodies, riddled with shot from a sawed off shotgun, were found in Brooklyn early today, were victims of a feud among bootleggers. The death weapon was found near their bodies. One is believed to have been Carlo Guttadauro. The other is unidentified.

Not that much of a clue has been obtained as to the identity of a person who thrust a shot gun through a window in the home of Miss Sadie Valentine and slew Anthony Panno, wealthy produce dealer. Miss Valentine and Panno were to have been married next week.

Max Kaplan, restaurant owner, was shot and killed by an assailant who wounded him twice in the head while Kaplan was walking with his wife. Mrs. Kaplan told police she did not see the slayer.

Diamonds and Peaches "Grow" on Same Tract

The territory in which Nashville, Ark., is located makes a bid for fame in being the home of the world's largest peach orchard, with 5,000 acres in trees, and also the home of the only diamond mine in North America. There is a $1,000,000 peach crop in sight there this year, which will be considerably more than the annual production of the diamond mine, but the latter draws the largest number of tourists, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

The diamond mine was discovered by John Huddleston in 1907. He found it on a 40-acre tract in Pike county, about 14 miles northeast of Nashville, which he had bought because he believed there was gold to be found there. Huddleston was a farmer, but all his life had been interested in minerals. The first two "pebbles" found by Huddleston proved to be steel-blue gems, one weighing one and three-eighths carats. The third he found was a yellow stone, weighing one-half carat, and this he sold for $100.

Without waiting to prospect further, Huddleston sold his land for $38,000 to Little Rock interests, this being the exact amount necessary to purchase a certain farm he had in mind. He laments that if he had kept his property he probably would be a millionaire some day. Those who have been connected with the diamond mining industry here since its start say that because of the high luster of the Arkansas gems in their rough state, Pike county diamonds surpass even those of South Africa. This luster comes from their extreme hardness.

The production of this diamond field to date is estimated at 5,000 carats, the stones running in size from one-eighth to 20 1/2 carats. The diamonds occur in peridotite, which resembles burned lime in that it flakes upon exposure to air. To recover the diamonds from the peridotite two methods are employed, one being simply to spread the ore on the ground and allow it to decompose, after which it is washed in large revolving pans, and the other is to grind the ore at once and then proceed with the washing process. In the washing process the material is flushed over a grease board with water, the diamonds adhering to the grease, while the residue is carried over into the waste pile.

Four Power Note Warns China

In Event of War, World Powers Will Hold Her Responsible for Losses of Foreign Property or Lives—Chinese War Conditions Graver.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Peking, Aug. 29.—The United States, Great Britain, France and Japan, in a four-power note delivered to the Chinese government today advise China that she would be held responsible for all losses of foreign property or lives in the event of war in the vicinity of Shanghai.

Rumors of war between Marshal Chi-Hsieh-Yuan of Nanking (Kiangsu province) and General Lu Yung-Hsiang (Chekiang province) are rife, but it has been impossible to obtain confirmation of any actual fighting between the two militarists whose forces face each other along the Kiangsu Chekiang border about forty miles from Shanghai.

The wildness of some of the rumors is well indicated by the report that the traffic on the Shanghai Hang Chow railroad running between Shanghai and the capital of General Lu, had been suspended because of military operations. It was subsequently discovered that traffic had been temporarily delayed owing to the derailment of a freight car.

Warships En Route to China.

London, Aug. 29.—Civil war preparations between the rival Chinese war lord Kiangsu and Chekiang provinces are being speeded up to the utmost and the situation is steadily becoming graver, said a Central News dispatch from Shanghai this afternoon.

Troops in Chi-Hsi and Hunan provinces are supporting the Kiangsu forces whose objective is the Kiangnan arsenal in a suburb of Shanghai.

The commander of the Chi-Hsi army sent an ultimatum to Marshal Lu at Hangchow demanding the return of the Shanghai district to Kiangsu province.

American and British warships are on their way to Shanghai. Two rival armies are just outside of Shanghai and fighting is expected hourly.

NEW SPARK PLUGS
CUT CAR EXPENSESSavings in Oil and Gas More Than Pay for Devices and Power Is Better.

Very careful experiments by motor manufacturers have proved that it is actually waste and unfair to a motor car to run it more than a few miles with the same set of spark plugs. Thousands of motorists have found that a new set of plugs after 8,000 to 10,000 miles, running not only make better performance certain but actually save oil and gas to more than pay for the new spark plugs.

Real Economy.

Why it is real economy to do this is easily understood when the part spark plugs play in engine operation is definitely known. In the engines used in motor cars today, the charge is fired in each cylinder at every revolution of the crank shaft. This means that the spark plugs are called on to deliver the firing spark from 600 to 1,500 times per minute, according to the speed of the engine. The temperature around the firing points runs from 800 degrees up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, the average being around 1,200. In most motors, it is being continuously splashed on and burned off the spark plug. This tremendous heat and stress, due to the hammer-like blows of the compression and firing strokes, gradually affect the efficiency of the spark plug, no matter how well made it may be. The oil adheres to the surface of the plug affecting its insulating properties and allowing for surface leakage which weakens the spark after a long period of service.

Full Power Not Secured.

Full power is not secured from the engine consumed. The engine becomes sluggish. Acceleration is slower. It lacks pull on the hills. The unburned gasoline seeps by the plugs and dilutes the oil in the crank case, affecting lubrication and many times causing serious injury to the working parts. This process is so slow that the motorist rarely notices it. But the operation is actually about the same as driving with a partially clogged spark. The installation of a new set of spark plugs is actually a revelation to the motorist. The difference in engine operation is so marked as to be unmistakable. Power and pickup are better. There is more speed. Engine operation is improved in every way. And the motorist actually saves the cost of the new spark plugs in oil and gasoline in the first 1,200 to 1,500 miles of running.

"Make Run" in Climbing
Hill With Heavy Trucks

Unless the road surface is too rough or want it, the best way to climb a hill is "make a run" at it. Climbing in this manner not only makes use of the momentum of the truck, but avoids overheating the engine, which when the result of running in low gear for any considerable distance. A year should be resorted to on a hill when the engine, with open throttle, slows down so low that its operation becomes labored and jerky or commences to knock. The maximum safe speeds of trucks are in general quite low in comparison with those of passenger cars, especially if they are geared very low and equipped with solid tires. A truck should never be driven so fast that the engine vibrates excessively.

Testing Quality of Oil
Is Very Important Task

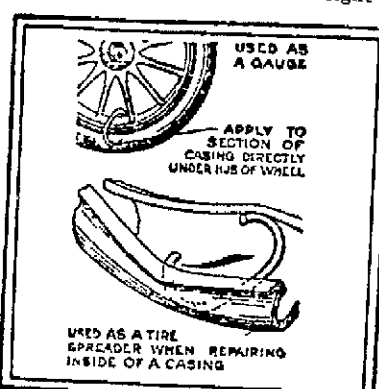

The practice of draining off a little of the crankcase oil to examine it and decide whether all the oil should be discarded is not good. The heaviest portion of the oil naturally goes to the bottom, and as the drain plug is always at the bottom of the crankcase, the oil the motorist drains off is no more than the general condition of the oil. The best plan is to make a test after the engine has been warmed up, drawing off about a quart. If it is in excellent shape, and if no sludge is handy, it can be poured

Listening Rod Detects

When a noise occurs in the timing gears it can easily be distinguished by a loud ringing or humming sound, and can easily be detected by sounding the timing gear case with a listening rod or stethoscope. It is generally caused by worn bearings or gear teeth and in some cases by wearing which causes the gears to mesh improperly. It is frequently evident after the main bearings have been refitted, since this may change the gear centers and cause the gear teeth to mesh deeper.

Appliance for Holding
Beads of Tire Casings

A piece of 3/4-inch rod, bent to the shape shown, is a handy appliance for holding the beads of a tire casing apart while making interior repairs, or patching. In addition, it made the correct size, it will serve as an inflation-test gauge. To accomplish this, pump the tire up to the right pressure, and measure the casing directly under the wheel hub, with the weight of Tire Spreader and Gauge.

When Going Over Tires
Carefully Examine Extra

When you are looking over the tires on your car don't forget the spare you are carrying behind. Unless it is covered to protect it from light, water, oil and heat, it will rapidly deteriorate. These four enemies of rubber will take the life out of any rubber product in a short time. It is important to make sure that the spare tire is fastened tightly to the carrier. If there is any play in the fastenings there will be constant rubbing against the casing and consequent injury to it. Once in a while a few drops of oil should be placed on the detachable rim bolts. Oil should also be used when an old tire has rusted to the rim and refuses to give up its hold. But when oil is used, carefully wipe it off the tire before the job is finished.

Keep Record of Mileage
for Claim Adjustment

When you get a new tire you figure that it is guaranteed to give a definite amount of service. One of the first things you need to know, if a tire gives out and you contemplate making a claim for adjustment, is how many miles that tire has gone. Do you guess at the mileage, thinking you put the tire on at about such a speedometer registration? Do you take account of changes when a spare goes on while another tire is repaired? The only way to be sure about tire mileage is to record it. Do this on a card or a slip of paper or right on the wall of the garage. When you put on a tire, set down its number and the mileage record when it goes. To service. If it comes off for a time, make record of the mileage to date and a new record when it goes on again.

On the Isle of Georgia

Inhabitants of the Isle of Georgia.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

South Georgia, due east of Cape Horn in the South Atlantic ocean, is the typical outpost of the Antarctic as Iceland is of the Arctic, but it is a much smaller island than the latter and lacking its tempering Gulf stream, has never been possible of colonization. But if it has no extensive history of its own, it has a place in the history of geographic discovery, for it was the first South Polar land known to man and was found during the golden age of exploration. And it later came to be an El Dorado of seal skins for brave Yankee skippers.

Until the latter part of the eighteenth century, maps of the world commonly included a conjectured landmass lying south of the known continents and labeled Terra Australis Incognita. From time to time since the discovery of America, vague reports of southern land had been brought to Europe by mariners who had been blown southward out of their course, and contemporary geographers had held persistent hopes for the discovery and exploitation of an austral continent which might add a second New World to the globe.

In 1775, Capt. James Cook, commander of H. M. S. Resolution on a voyage in search of this terra incognita, was cruising along the coast of an ice-covered island in latitude 54 degrees 30 minutes south. The island had appeared unexpectedly in the path of the Resolution, and it was the first assurance of the disappointment in store for mankind.

The discoverer was somewhat depressed on seeing the barrenness of the new land, whose rocky shore and cliffs of ice were but gloomy auguries for a habitable territory lying still nearer the Southern pole.

The Isle of Georgia.

Referring to his blighted hope of a fair Antarctic land, he said: "To judge of the bulk by the sample, it would not be worth the discovery. . . . Who would have thought that an island of no greater extent than this, situated between the latitude of 54 degrees and 55 degrees, should, in the very height of summer, be in a manner wholly covered, many fathoms deep, with frozen snow?"

Cook took possession of the country for England and named it the Isle of Georgia; and, after charting the coast, he proceeded on his famous circumnavigation of the world. South Georgia, as the island came to be called, was destined not to be forgotten, for the brave tales of Captain Cook were popular reading during the early years of American independence. It may be that "his word 'sea-bears' was the lure that started the first follower in the wake of the Resolution. Certain it is that before the close of the eighteenth century bold Yankee mariners from New London, Stonington, and other Long Island sound ports had begun to reap the harvest of fur-seals skins at South Georgia.

When the supply of lucrative furs first began to fail, the other amphibious monsters mentioned by Cook, the sea-elephants, were forced to pay the costs of the ruthless voyagers. The sea-elephant is the largest of seals, and is thickly invested with blubber which yields an oil little inferior to the product of the sperm whale; hence, "elephant hunting" became an important industry at most of the subantarctic islands. In many of its haunts the species was soon exterminated, and, although at South Georgia it still persists, its days are numbered unless absolute protection be soon enforced.

But the tale of human industry at the barren Isle is not yet told, and the latest development already overshadows a century of sealing. Eighteen years ago Norwegian sealers, Vikings still, found a field unspoiled by the bloody dynasty of their American predecessors, and they have made South Georgia the headquarters of the greatest whale fishery on earth.

Between 1910 and 1920 more than 40,000 whales, representing a value of roughly fifty millions of dollars, have been shot on the offshore banks and towed to the bustling whaling stations of the island. In a single year (season of 1915-1916) the South Georgian catch numbered 5,510 whales.

Glaciers Are Mighty. Small though South Georgia is, its glaciers are as mighty as those of Spitzbergen, and there is ample evidence that the island was formerly completely buried by an ice-cap. The high ground of the interior is covered with an everlasting neve, which consolidates at the sources of all the valleys to form tongues of ice, most of which extend clear into the sea, ending in abrupt walls.

The one incomprehensible statement in Captain Cook's account of South Georgia is his emphatic testimony that he saw no brook or stream along the whole coast. Certainly today the rushing torrents are a great impediment to progress on land, and during January thaws gleaming cascades, visible from far at sea, pour from the ledges of the coast hills.

The climate of South Georgia varies relatively little throughout the year. The mean annual temperature is very close to the freezing point, and the sky is prevalently overclouded. February is the warmest month. Snow, generally in the form of hard, globular particles, which sting the skin like hail, falls in every month, and rain and sleet storms are both frequent and prolonged during the summer. Either rain or snow falls on about five-sixths of the days of the whole year.

The greatest proportion of clear days is in winter; but November and December, the springtime of the southern world, are often made memorable by a few successive days of sunshine, while on rare midsummer afternoons of January and February the jealous ice King is sometimes lulled to sleep, the thermometer rises as high as 98 degrees Fahrenheit, and South Georgia basks in a sparkling calm. Only on such fleeting occasions is the subtle feeling of the glaciers absent from the land and sea.

Has Oceanic Climate.

South Georgia has an oceanic, as opposed to a continental, climate; it is under the continual equalizing influence of the sea, and it thoroughly demonstrates how much more unfavorable to the production of a varied flora is a constantly low temperature than seasonal cold of the severest kind.

Owing to the same oceanic life conditions, the land animals of South Georgia are even fewer than the plants. There is no indigenous terrestrial mammal, but rats, horses and reindeer have been introduced and are thriving in a wild state. The rats were probably first brought by sealing vessels a hundred years ago.

Most remarkable of all the living things of South Georgia, perhaps, are the great clumsy sea elephants. They have contentious dispositions and are given to fighting among themselves from earliest puphood, yet fondness for company is one of their marked traits. An animal coming out of the sea is obviously not contented on a lonely shore. It wanders about nervously between brief resting periods and soon returns to the water, perhaps feeling that it must find some one to quarrel with.

A sea-elephant, when landing, crawls slowly up the strand, stopping to let the waves break over it and taking advantage of every swell to aid its progress. When it has reached the upper beach it rises to its full height and reconnoiters; then, proceeding a little farther, it repeats the action; or, if it spies none of its kind, it may take a siesta before continuing the search.

The two dozen species of birds which breed on South Georgia offer a fascinating field for the study of certain biological questions, notably the struggle for existence. Of special interest are the penguins. Two species are still common at South Georgia, the nobler tribe of penguins, the "kings," form a sort of hereditary aristocracy. They are stalwart birds which stand a yard high. They wear a gold collar round their necks, and deport themselves in a rather lofty and snobbish manner.

A band of king penguins makes a glorious display when the morning sunlight shines on the golden throats and orange ear-patches of the soldierly birds. Sometimes the brigades, scattered here and there over the beaches and moraines, hail and answer each other with long-drawn, martial, bugle calls, and then, as if at a concerted signal, all will start marching toward the sea. Sometimes the birds stand together on the sunny side of a snowdrift, preening their feathers, "marking time," or even performing the difficult stunt of balancing themselves on one foot and scratching their heads with the other.

Tongue Twisters That Have Become Classics

Some time ago there appeared in the British comic journal Punch, a particularly effective tongue twister, which ran something to this effect:

A lady was walking down a country lane when she met a tinker. "Ah," she said, "I see you are copper-bottoming your pots." "Oh, no," he replied, "I'm aluminiuming 'em, mum." As a tongue twister this is pretty hard to get, though perhaps the American form of the words is just a trifle more difficult to wrap one's tongue around: "I'm aluminiuming 'em, mum."

There are, of course, many thousands of these traps for the unwary floating about. Here are a few. The test is, not merely to say them, but to manage to repeat them quickly, say a half a dozen, times without getting one's tongue tied up in a knot.

The sea ceaseth and it sufficeth us. A growing gleam growing green. The bleak breeze blighted the bright bloom blossoms.

She took a switch at Smith's fish sauce shop. Flesh of fresh-frying fish. High roller, low roller, lower roller.

A box of mixed biscuits, a mixed biscuit box.

She stood at the gate welcoming him in. She sells sea shells on the sea shore. Which switch is the switch, miss, for Ipswich?—Kansas City Star.

Music of the Orient
Harsh and Strident

The idea as to what real music really is varies according to race and environment. Music of the Orient is apt to jar upon sensitive occidental ears. Take the question of drums as an instance. The playing of drums in European orchestras has reached a high standard of art, though it is rare that more than three or four are used. In a Burmese orchestra, however, the two principal instruments are one made of a series of drums called the seing-weing and a similar series of gongs called the kyee or gongs graduated in size, the drums being played with the fingers and hands and the gongs with knobsticks. Besides these there are cymbals, tom-toms and castanets, the last-named being much larger than the European instruments and made of bamboo. Of wind instruments there are only a number of clarinets and one flute played by the leader or conductor. String instruments are not used, and there are also no brass instruments.

Virginia Brick First

Bricks were first made by the settlers in this country in Virginia in 1611, in Massachusetts in 1630 and in Pennsylvania in 1638. History shows that the brick walls of Fort Duquesne and Fort Pitt afforded protection against the savages, and that other structures of the time were built of brick. Commercial production, however, did not attain any importance until the latter part of the eighteenth century.

Politics Explained

Politics is the gizzard of society, full of grit and gravel; the two political parties are its two opposite halves which grind on each other.—Thoreau (1851).

Unpopular Qualities

If the people get to think of you as a man who knows how to do nothing but scold and criticize and find fault they will soon get sick of you.—George F. Hoar.

Talk Not Filling

And one of the hardest things to do in this world is for an orator to play on the emotions of people who want to go home to dinner.—Dallas News.

Pine Tree Money

The silver money coined in Massachusetts in the second half of the seventeenth century was called "pine tree" money from the device which it bore, a pine tree. It was also known as "Boston" or "Bay" money.

Stray Bit of Wisdom

Too many individuals are like Shakespeare's definition of "Echo," babbling gossips of the air.—H. W. Shaw.

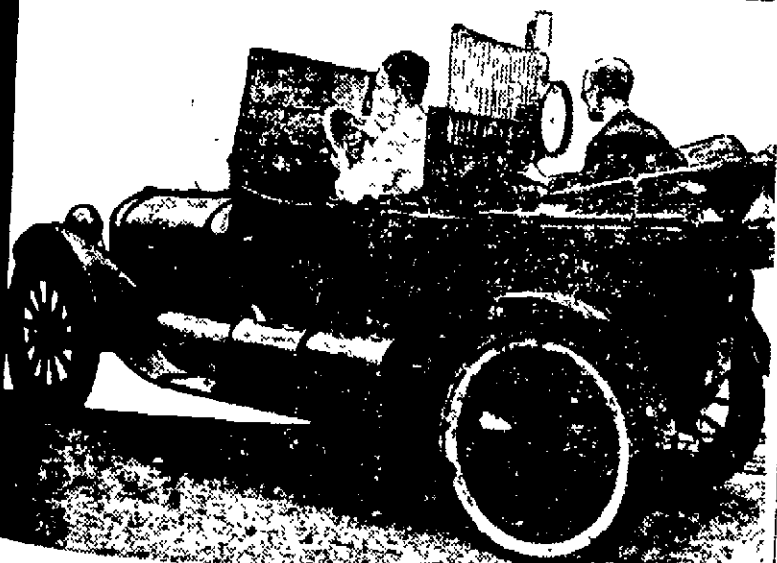

Dulls by Repetition

The reproach of a friend should be strictly just, but not too frequent.—Buddell.

Be Dependent or Independent

Are you giving your brain and energy up to the enemy? If you are selling them why not advertise for the highest bidder? The Freeman's Want Ad. Department is the most where daily transactions are made between men who think in ability.

GASOLINE FAMINE TO ALTER CAR STYLES

Anticipating a gasoline shortage due to the increase in the number of motor cars and the decrease in the production of crude oil, the bureau of standards of the Department of Agriculture has made a series of tests to determine how a poorer grade of motor fuel, which will eventually be placed on the market, will affect present-day motors. The decrease in the amount of oil being produced and the increase in the demand for gasoline will necessitate radical changes in automobile designing.

P. W. B. Did Not Meet Thursday

The regular monthly meeting of the board of public works was to have been held Thursday evening at the city hall, but the Republican members of the board, Messrs. Selig Oppenheimer, John Hillebrand and County Treasurer William H. Van Etten, failed to appear and so no meeting was held for lack of a quorum. Mayor Morris Block and Dr. George Chandler, the Democratic members of the board, were present.

Thursday's meeting, if it had been held, would undoubtedly have proved the last session of the board as at present constituted. Under the power given him by "Local Law No. 2" it is expected that Mayor Block will shortly announce the appointment of a new board of public works and hold a special meeting to dispose of the business that was to have been taken up Thursday evening.

Why "Jerkwater" Towns

For many years, villages and out-of-the-way hamlets throughout the country have been called "jerkwater" towns, but few persons know where the term originated.

A version is given in the Indiana Magazine of History. In the early days of the railroad train, it was not an uncommon occurrence to stop the engine at a wayside stream to replenish the water supply. The water was carried in leather buckets.

First-class roads soon eliminated this necessity, but smaller ones, touching only villages, continued their "jerkwater" engines. Railroad men are credited with having jokingly referred to the smaller towns as "jerkwater" places, and the name has stuck.

CATERPILLARS THREATEN FORESTS OF GERMANY

League of Nations Permit Sought to Combat the Pests With Poison Gas.

Breslau.—Thousands of acres of pine forests along the border line between Germany and Poland are in danger of being destroyed by countless millions of caterpillars of the pine tree lappet-moth which have infested the districts in greater numbers than has ever been known, according to German foresters, who have appealed to the Berlin government for aid.

Tar and various other so-called remedies have been tried, but without success, in efforts to exterminate the pest, and officials have been considering asking the League of Nations for permission to use airplanes and poison gas.

In the forests where fresh tar has been put about the tree trunks the caterpillars merely overran the tar to such an extent that a covering of the dead caterpillars thus entrapped was quickly formed, over which their followers reached the tree branches and leaves which, were soon devoured by the ravenous insects.

Experts say the only hope of saving many of Germany's great pine forests would be by the use of poison gas, but they are not even certain that this would work successfully in putting an end to the plague. The officials, however, are eager to try this method as an experiment.

To a person walking through the infested forests, either during the day or night, the sound of the caterpillars eating the leaves may be heard on all sides to such an extent that the trees appear to be alive, the sound reminding one of an unseen crackling fire when old leaves and young branches are being burned.

The plague has spread to some of the forests near Berlin, according to reports to the forestry department, and millions of marks of irreparable damage has already been done.

Rat Gets in Phone Box and Jams Up Service

New York.—For three weeks a certain telephone line in Yonkers was at times out of commission and again in good working order. It would remedy itself and then "go bad" again. Electrical experts searched and tested in vain for the cause. Then they found it. It was a playful rat which had gnawed through the insulation and apparently took delight each evening in crossing up the wires.

The telephone in question was a mile from the Yonkers office. Every now and then it would go out of order and flash a light in the switchboard at the central office as though the subscriber were calling. Experts were amazed because the trouble always occurred after dark and the telephone would often be working satisfactorily again the next day. They examined the switchboard, connected up new wires in the street cable and went over the wiring in the office and the house.

One expert, making another examination of the whole line, found a rat-hole over which the wire was strung, a few yards back of the switchboard. The insulation had been chewed off the wires. The rat, playing with them, would flash the signal to the switchboard and so interfere with them that the wire would become "dead" and no ringing could be done and no conversation carried on for hours at a time. Sometimes the rat would leave the phone in working order and sometimes he would leave it out of order until, by tampering with it again, he would rectify the trouble and restore service.

Electricians say that the rat must have frequently received shocks, but evidently the thrill did not scare it.

Purse Lost Nine Years Is Returned By Finder

Bedford, Pa.—David Bloom, of Cessna, has recovered his pocketbook and other valuables after nine years. The pocketbook, which contained $8 in bills, a watch chain, a ring and some papers, was lost and thought to have been stolen. Mr. Bloom forgot the incident. Then he received a package by mail which contained everything he had lost except the ring, the money being in the form of a check.

An accompanying letter stated that the sender, a resident of Ohio, had picked up the purse at Smith's restaurant, Bedford, and upon his arrival home had written Mr. Bloom, but his letter for some reason, had never been delivered. He had spent the money, but tossed the purse among some papers. Recently he decided to try again to locate the owner. The letter followed Bloom to Bedford and the pocketbook was gladly received.

Stone Age Tribe Found

London.—A Stone-age tribe has been discovered by a British officer in a mystery oasis in unknown Arabia. Capt. R. E. Cheesman, formerly private secretary to Sir Percy Cox in Baghdad, has just returned from an expedition into Arabia to the uncharted territories of the Sultan of Nejd. He is the first European to have reached the oasis of Jabrin, the position of which has long been a matter of speculation to geographers. The inhabitants of this region, with physical and linguistic peculiarities and virtually pagan, are possibly the survivors of the pre-Arab population.

Sacred Stones Pressed by Millions of Lips

During the holiday season many tourists in Ireland visit Blarney castle and its famous kissing stone. Of the stones variously asserted to be the original one, able to bestow the gift of persuasive eloquence upon whoever touches it with his lips, the one the kissing of which is a difficult feat, on account of its position, has received numerous kisses from daring visitors, as well as the one which is easy of access.

The Blarney stone is not unique in having received an immense number of chaste salutes. St. Peter's statue, in the nave of St. Peter's church, in Rome, can claim a like honor. In fact, the toe of this bronze figure's foot has been worn away by kisses.

Perhaps, however, the Mohammedans possess the most-kissed object in the world, namely, the celebrated Black stone at Mecca. No true Moslem, after having made a pilgrimage to the Prophet's birthplace, would think of leaving it without first kissing this sacred stone. Said to have been white originally, the Black stone is stated by those to whom it is an object of veneration to have been turned to its present color either through the sins of men or by the tremendous number of kisses bestowed upon it.

Plant Kills Insects

Many an insect has met his "Waterloo" within the treacherous cavern of the pitcher plant, says Nature Magazine, for once he enters his fate is sealed.

First Democrat

Kleinathenes, an Athenian scholar and statesman, was the first Democrat really to raise his voice in the interest of the common people. This occurred in about 510 B. C. About eighty years before a spirit of revolt made itself felt in Attica, owing to heavy taxes and the arrogance of the nobles. Solon, another eminent statesman and lawmaker, was authorized at that time to take some steps to remedy a situation that was already feared by those in power.

Value of Companionship

What an argument in favor of social connections is the observation that by communicating our grief we have less, and by communicating our pleasure we have more.—Greville.

"Boy Manager" On Top of World

Stanley Harris Leads Senators to Victory Over Yanks and First Place in American League in First of Four Game Series—Clubs Meet Again Today.

By Telegraph to The Freeman
New York, Aug. 29.—Stanley Harris, "boy manager" of the Washington Senators, was sitting on top of the world today, his team in first place and ready to engage the world's champion Yankees in another battle this afternoon. Only half a game separated the teams today and in order to maintain their lead the Senators must win at least two more of the four game series.

The advance to first place was made over the shattered remnants of three New York pitchers, among them two world's series stars of a year ago—Sam Jones and Herb Pennock. Neither of them displayed any aptitude for stopping an avalanche of hits that scored eight runs for the capital club in a wild eight inning rally. Al Mamaux, former Pittsburgh and Brooklyn finger, filled the breach, but too late to win the game.

Another world's series veteran, Joe Bush, was due to take up the burden for the Yanks this afternoon, and the probability was that either Zansler or Marberry would oppose him. The Yankees face the prospect of an afternoon with Walter Johnson, who recently pitched a seven inning no hit game against St. Louis, tomorrow. Waite Hoyt probably will take a fling at the third game for the champions.
